Focus Value:

School Goal:
To look after our belongings

This afternoon we had our final Celebration Assembly to bring the term to a close. It was also a chance for the Jump Jam team and Wearable Arts students to show their creativity to the school and parents who were able to attend. It is always impressive to see what our students have come up with and just how capable they are. I would like to thank the staff who also supported these projects and gave our students the opportunity to perform and present their creations.

Well done also to all the students who received awards at the assembly:

Mason Williams, William Stretton, Ash Withers, Eli Bryant, Saige Lomas, Leo Withers, Beau Henderson, Ayla Hinz, Emma Davis, Cohen Mullin, Aria Stewart-Jacks, Vereti Ligavatu, Odyn Adlam, Amelia Austin, Cara Yates, Nathan Bell, Kayla McDonald, Angelo Martin, Layton Bamford, Karter Bailey, Raihaan Gill, Mia Wilmshurst, Lexie Old, Payton Rook, Miila Laurence, Dolly Genji, James Buckley, Ethan Shea, Kethan Vavilala, Layken Stevens-Rapana, Nico Jordan, Noah Hooper, Rylee Holmes, Grace Enoka-Liki

Well done to Katie Martin, Teegan Watt, Milla Ellis, Katie Gorrie, Adele Keighley and Kupa Walden who, after a year and a half of work, have achieved their Honours Badges. We look forward to more students achieving this award as the year progresses.

Bell Block School Board

Every state and state-integrated school in New Zealand has a board. The board's core role is to govern its school. Standing for election to the school board is a great way to get involved in your child's education and give something back to your community.

What is a school board?

The board's role is to oversee the governance of its school and to ensure that everything that needs to be done gets done - legally, ethically, and as well as possible in the best interests of its students.

The board is the employer of all staff, including the principal, and sets the overall strategic direction for the school. The principal is the board's 'chief executive' and manages the day-to-day operations of the school in line with the board's direction and policies.

A standard board constitution is made up of:

- members elected from the community
- the principal
- a staff-elected representative
- a number of co-opted members (who must be fewer in number than parent-elected members)

Board members have a term of office of up to 3 years.

What does the board do?

The board has a duty to show to its parents, community, and to the government that students are being well prepared for life beyond school. Evidence of progress and future direction is outlined annually in a charter, which is a document declaring specific annual targets and long-term goals.

The board is elected by members of the school community to ensure that the school community has a voice in how its school operates.

The board must also ensure it is a good employer to all the staff in the school.

Here are some things that a board does:

- work with its local community to make sure that the school works in a way that is appropriate for the students, families and wider community that it serves
- create the school charter and strategic plan. These describe the board's long-term plans for the school and sets goals that will help make them happen
- monitor progress towards the long-term plan and goals
- monitor and evaluate student progress and achievement to make sure that every student is getting the preparation they need to survive and thrive in the world
- make overall decisions about the school property (grounds and buildings), finances, curriculum (what is taught) and administration. These decisions are often made on the advice of the principal and staff, and are carried out by the principal and staff once they are made
- ensure that the school gives effect to Te Tiriti o Waitangi
- appoints and supports the principal and assesses their performance

- is a good employer to its staff. The board employs all the staff including the principal. This means that the board has a responsibility to make sure that the school provides a safe and healthy environment for them all to work in and obeys the laws about employment
- setting the strategic direction and targets for the school
- planning towards and reporting on achieving those targets
- curriculum management
- financial and property management
- policies and procedures
- health and safety
- employment of staff at the school

What skills do board members need?

Board members are active leaders in their schools. All members should be able to:

- work well in a team
- understand and think about what they are being told
- ask relevant and challenging questions
- have good communication skills

Boards also need a balance of specific skills and attributes to make sure that all the board's responsibilities are being met. Board members should have a genuine interest in the work of the school and the education and welfare of its students. Board members should also have:

- passion
- energy
- people skills
- honesty
- integrity

Other knowledge or experience in areas such as Education, Finance, Law, Property, Human Resources, Health and/or the Social Sector may be helpful for a board, but not compulsory.
